Ski enthusiasts' support of the controversial Mineral King project in Sequoia National Forest was lodged in a petition presented to Tulare County supervisors. The petition, containing 3,315 signatures, was presented by Calvin Baldwin, county counsel, along with an accompanying letter from George Baker, Pasadena, who headed the petition-circulating campaign for the Western States Ski Fraternity. The proposed $35 million project for a ski and recreation center by Disney Enterprises has been stalled pending a Supreme Court ruling on a suit brought by the Sierra Club.
